

"Don't place two babies in one carriage," is the advice to mothers by nurses of New York's Department of Health, who are visiting the public milk stations. International.

"It only makes them warmer to let them cry," says the Health Department nurse. But how are you going to stop them? International.

This photograph was made at the first public appearance of the Girl Scouts of China. The girls formed a guard at the Far Eastern Olympic games in Shanghai. Underwood & Underwood.

Overfeeding in hot weather is bad for any one, but particularly for infants. Nurses show New York mothers how much food should be given. International.

Anastasio Vincente Soler y Roys, apostolic vicar in charge of Catholic missionary work in Colombia, South America, photographed after calling on President Harding. Copyright, Harris & Ewing.

Above — Brig. Gen. Sawyer, U. S. A., is the President's personal physician. He has recommended that horseback riding be added to the Chief Executive's exercises. Photo shows Gen. Sawyer in the saddle. Underwood & Underwood.

At right — A flying horse which delighted the children and the grownups, too, at the Ranelagh Club, England. This strangely shaped balloon may travel for miles if the weather permits. Wide World.

Being a grizzly bear has its compensations at the Bronx Zoo. When the dens in the rock become uncomfortably hot there is a fine pool outside, many degrees cooler than the air. International.